

CHALLENGE

A manufacturing client faced a major production threat when their regular belt supplier failed to deliver a critical order on time—bringing operations to a standstill. With no replacement belts available and every hour of downtime costing thousands, they urgently needed a fast, reliable solution to avoid extended shutdown and lost productivity.

SOLUTION

The client turned to D&D Global, known for its deep inventory and rapid response. Acting immediately, the D&D team hand-delivered 78 belts overnight, driving 12 hours to ensure the customer had what they needed by the next morning. To prevent future disruptions, D&D also set up a reserved stock program, ensuring belts would always be available when needed.

RESULT:

- Production was back online within 48 hours
- A custom stock reserve was established to eliminate future supply risk.
